1.3.40

a Lesson in the University of The New Covenant

Theodore Cottingham, February 25, 2005 8 a.m. St. John's Episcopal

www.unc.bz

1. I am giving you the land. I have given you the land. I have given you the land that belongs to so many. So many now come to the land. So many come to the lands that I have given you, the land which I have given you; the land, the land, the nations coming forth; the lands, the nations on the lands. Watch me.

2. I come forth and I cataclysmically bring you plans, not; not in cataclysmia, but yea, in tenderness, kindness, and in perfect timing; my timing; my timing to place my lands in your hands.

3. I love you and I give you me, and I forthwith/posthaste, make haste. Do all that I have said, and come forth in the mighty many which now come to the lands which I have given you; the lands many, the lands many, and many lands.

4. I love you and I give you me. I give you me and I give you all of me, and I appreciate your tenacity to know me, to serve me, to be my friend, to please me and bring me pleasure. I love you and I give you all of me, and you're right, I give you all of me. I give you all of me, and I give you all of me every day. I give you all of me every time you want me, and when you look my way, Ted, I smile. I smile and I disrobe, for there are no robes that keep me from me and you. There are no robes that stand between us. I give you me and I give you all of me.

5. See me in what I have said. See me, see me in all that I am saying, and see what I say, and see what I keep saying, and see what I keep pouring forth, yea, will do so much more so, more so. Voluminous volumes coming forth, yea, answers to all you have asked me, yea, answers to all you have asked me, and all you will ask me, and all that I will yet place in your heart to ask me for.

6. I love you. I give you me, and I smile at you this day, and I thank you for tenacity'ing not in the wrong direction, and in things I have not spoken about; but yea, into me see and see what I am doing, and seeing how I will lead, feeling how I will speak, hearing my voice and not being afraid; yea, in the wind, the rain, the horns, the trumpets, yea, the blast of my nostrils that come forth around the worlds.

7. Watch me and be not afraid; and think it not strange that you walk among death, that you walk among life, and that you bring death, and you bring life, and you uproot, and you tear down, and you build, and you nurture, and you give me all, and you place all in me; and I give you all of me everyday, every single day; every day and every night, and every time you arise and want me I will be there, I am there, I am there for you. You are me, and I am you, and our oneship comes to the point that no one will question me; no one will question me in my words, in what I have given, and what I am doing; and the land.

8. I provision am. I am all provision. I am provider. I am all provider and all provision, and I renege not on my promises. I am of my word. I am my word, and my word comes forth now more and more; and more so about my lands, my provision, my resources now coming forth from me: your source, your lover, your friend.

9. I love you, and I give you me, and I give you this day, eyes wide open; eyes wide open to behold me in the fullness of the radiance of my sonshine, and my beauty; the beauty in my body; in my body in my beauty placing.
I love you.

10. All power I am, all glory, all dominion. I love you and I give you me, and I give you all of me, and I thank you for your thankfulness, for your gratitude, your graciousness with my body; my people of horror and terror, not; my people of my ways, my values, my word.

11. I thank you, and I give you me, and all that I have said is true, and truth, and forever lasting; lasting forevermore. I love you.

12. Into the hearts of men and women see what I have given, what I am, and how I come forth now in fullness, unrestrained, unrestricted, and no robes in between. I love you.

13. Think it not strange the trials and the tribulations so little, so big, so much growth. Thank you.

14. I will speak, I will speak more, and I will speak of every detail you seek me about. I love you. Thank you for seeking me about the details, for all comes forth, and now is – raiment and resources of only me.

15. I thank you. I thank you. I am says thank you to I am. Good day.

16. See me in all I have said. Feel the release. See my response, as responding I am to your response. To your source and resource, I give all my source and resource. It's all there. Receiving me, you do. Thank you. Good day.